Aimee Di Marco – Biography

Aimee is a Consultant Endocrine Surgeon at the Hammersmith Hospital, part of Imperial Healthcare NHS Trust, London UK, and is Honorary Senior Lecturer at Imperial College, London. She was appointed in 2019 after completing the TS Reeve Fellowship in Sydney, before which she trained in London including a PhD in surgical technology and the gold medal for the best candidate in the FRCS examination.

Aimee has a high volume specialist practice in thyroid, parathyroid and adrenal disease. Alongside this she is the Lead for Surgery and Procedural Care at Imperial College School of Medicine and is the Head of Site for General Surgery at Hammersmith Hospital. She is on the BAETS Council as Education Lead.

She has research interests in technology in endocrine surgery encompassing autofluoresence, diffuse reflectance spectroscopy, molecular testing in thyroid nodules and the immune microenvironment of adrenal cortical cancer.

Aimee is an early career counsellor for the IAES and seeks to bring endocrine surgeons into the society as trainees and new appointees.
